

Terms of Use and Media Release

By using this website or submitting any materials, I agree to the following with CHINA INSTITUTE IN AMERICA INC and its affiliates, licensees, successors, and assignees (collectively, the “China Institute”).

The website and its content are provided “as is” and “as available.” China Institute makes no warranties, express or implied, regarding the accuracy, reliability, or availability of information on this site. I use it at my own risk. China Institute is not liable for any damages resulting from use of, or inability to use, this site or its content.

I hereby irrevocably assign, transfer, and convey to China Institute all right, title, and interest, including all copyrights and copyright registrations, and all rights of renewal and extension thereto, in and to the material I submit in relation to the digital storytelling project How We Meet: The Chinese Food Confessional (“Story Submission”), throughout the world, in perpetuity, and in all media now known or hereafter developed, and for any and all purposes, including but not limited to publication, presentation, distribution, social media, education, entertainment, and advertising.

As an example of the rights transferred without limitation, China Institute may produce derivative works based on my Story Submission, including music, song, photographs, film, animation, audiotape, and/ or other writing. China Institute may also share, sell, transfer, or assign the rights, title, and interest in and of the Story Submission or any derivative works with other organizations, government officials, media outlets, and third parties. If China Institute wishes me to participate in an event or one-on-one interview, it may contact me for permission and scheduling, but I am under no obligation to participate.

I understand and agree that I have no rights in the Story Submission, which may be edited, published, distributed, republished, and/or licensed by China Institute now or in the future. I waive any right to inspect or approve the use of the Story Submission.

Any Story Submission on behalf of minors must be made by a parent or guardian and must not include the child’s last name or contact information.

I irrevocably waive, release, and discharge China Institute from any and all claims, liabilities, damages, fees, or expenses—whether known or unknown—including claims for libel, defamation, copyright infringement, invasion of privacy, right of publicity, or trespass, arising from the use of the Story Submission. I acknowledge that I will not be compensated for the use of the Story Submission and waive any right to royalties or other compensation.

I represent that I am over 18 years of age and understand and agree to the terms set forth above for myself, or as the parent/legal guardian of a minor on whose behalf I am submitting.